NEW TRIAL IN OIL TRUST CASE

Circuit Court of Appeals Reverses Judge Landis' Decision.

HARD FOUGHT CASE.

In Which the Standard Was Fined in the Sum of $29,540,000.

Chicago, July 24.—By unanimous opinion of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals of the Seventh district the case of the Government against the Standard Oil Company, in which the latter was fined $29,540,000 by Judge Landis in the District Court, must be retried. This opinion, concurred in by Judges Baker and Seaman, was delivered in Chicago by Judge Grosscup.

The Government has thirty days in which to file a petition for a rehearing and it will be filed within the allotted period.

In the event a rehearing is denied, the Government may go to trial on the original indictment containing 1,462 counts—an action which District Attorney Sims could be ready to take within two weeks—or upon any one of seven other indictments containing 4,422 counts. As a vast amount of work has been done on these cases just decided it is unlikely that an entirely new case will be presented. The record of the present case contains over a million and a half words, and is estimated to have cost the Government $200,000.

BAND CONCERT

Second of Series Given at Main and Central Avenue.

Another delightful concert was given by Lebkuecher's band Wednesday evening at Main and Central. The attendance was larger than at the previous concert, showing the growing popularity of these musical treats. The great crowds packed the streets with a good natured crowd, who enjoyed the fine music until ten o'clock.

The portable band stand was located in front of the City Bank. It is a cleverly arranged platform, on wagon wheels, and was donated by the Forbes Manufacturing Co.

The program was: March—Lights Out.....E. E. McCoy Waltz—Loveland.....Holzman Intermezzo Indiana.....Tobani Hearts and Flowers.....Tobani Intermission.....Two Step—Sweethearts.....Neilson American Fantasia—Gems of Stephen Foster.....Tobani Irish Hearts.....Evans Overture—Ivanhoe.....Hazel The next concert will be on Thursday night.

BALL GAMES

Will Live Up to the Summer Season.

Frank H. Bassett, the baseball promoter, is fitting up Mercer Park for a series of games next month. A strong local team has been organized and some good games are to be played with neighboring teams.

A grand stand is being put up and a force of men is getting the diamond and grounds into proper condition. The stand will be built along the third base line to get the best shade.

The season will open with two games with the Russellville team Monday and Tuesday, which will be called at about 3:30 o'clock. This team is backed by a $1,000 merchants' fund and is made up largely of professionals, but the locals are Hadden, Morgan, and Morris to set the pace.

The admission is 25 cents and the good location should assure a large crowd.

SUMMER SUPPLY

For Rev. M. A. Jenkins to Be Louisville Divine.

Rev. D. M. Pressley, of Louisville, will supply for Rev. Millard A. Jenkins, of the First Baptist church, during the month of August. Dr. Jenkins will go to Atlanta, Ga., for the first two weeks in August, after which he will take an ocean trip to New York and spend five days with Dr. McPherson, who supplied for him last year. Dr. Pressley will preach a series of special sermons on Sunday evenings.

REV. D. M. PRESSLEY.

HENDERSON JOURNAL

Assigns to O. V. B. & T. Company.

The Journal Company, publisher of the Henderson evening journal, gave a deed of assignment Wednesday to the Ohio Valley Banking and Trust Company, for the benefit of its creditors, says the Gleaner. The assignor turns over to the assignee all its property, including the machinery and the newspaper itself, and it is probable that the publication will be continued under the management of the assignee.

Several days ago Edward A. Jonas was reported as having resigned the editorship of the Journal and placed the management of the plant in the hands of C. E. Dallam and others.

DROPS DEAD.

Father of James Hyland, Jr., Succumbs Without Warning.

Mayfield, Ky., July 24.—Jas. Hyland, aged 75 years, died suddenly at his home, three miles north of town. After breakfast it was his intention to go over to the home of a neighbor, Pat Thomas, and he had just stepped out upon the front porch when he dropped dead.

He had been living in this section for the past twenty years, and was a well-known citizen. He leaves an aged wife and two sons, Bertie Hyland, of this city, and James Hyland, of this city, but who is now working in Hopkinsville.

EDWARDS—WILKINS.

Popular Young People Are Married at Pembroke.

Miss Bessie Wilkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Wilkins, of the Mayville neighborhood, and Mr. Claude Edwards, of Logan county, were married in Pembroke Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, the Rev. W. C. Brandon officiating. Miss Wilkins had been visiting relatives near Fairview, and according to plans which had been arranged for a week or so, Mr. Edwards went to Fairview Wednesday, and drove on to Pembroke with his bride-elect that afternoon. Following the ceremony they went to Russellville, where they were given a grand reception by Judge John Edwards, uncle of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Edwards will reside near Ferguson.

MORE SOLDIERS CALLED INTO SERVICE AT COBB

Another Incendiary Fire Destroys Boxcar Office at Otter Pond.

DEPOTS MAY NOT BE REBUILT

Gano Warder, Former Gracey Marshal, Arrested On Night Rider Charge.

As a result of the destruction of three of their depots by night riders the Illinois Central railroad Wednesday afternoon issued orders that no trains should be run on the Hopkinsville-Princeton division of the road that night. The accommodation passenger train, scheduled to leave here for Princeton at 6:25 o'clock, went goes out a full hour earlier.

Strict orders were also issued to all crews that all bridges and trestles should be carefully examined before the trains should pass over.

The destruction of the depots at Otter Pond, Cerulean and Gracey Wednesday morning was followed by the burning early Thursday morning of the boxcar at Otter Pond used as a temporary station by the agent, S. J. Lester.

The details of this outrage have not yet been received. The box car was burned during the night. Another one was taken to Otter Pond Thursday and was not molested that night. The regular schedule interrupted was resumed Thursday night, though a very slow run was made, the 6:25 train not reaching Princeton until 10:05. There are no telegraph offices over this line of 31 miles and there was some apprehension felt until the safe arrival of the train was reported.

Supt. A. H. Egan, of the I. C., was here Thursday and said no immediate steps would be taken to rebuild the depots burned. Box cars will be used until conditions become settled. It was strongly intimated that the question of withdrawing trains altogether from this division was to be seriously considered in the event of further outbreaks.

The conditions were improved yesterday and no troubles have been reported for twenty-four hours. Another small detachment of soldiers from Madisonville has been added to the detail at Cobb.

Gano Warder Arrested.

County Judge C. O. Prowse issued a warrant Thursday for the arrest of Gano M. Warder, charging him with confederating for the purpose of injuring a person or persons in the Hopkinsville raid. He is already under indictment for confederating to destroy and destroying property, and has been under bond of $1,000 since shortly after he was arrested in June. He was arrested by Deputy Sheriff John Boyd and taken to jail in default of a bond, which was fixed at $1,500 by Judge Prowse.

J. G. Hord, one of his bondsmen, also withdrew from the $1,000 bond.

Troops Came Back

Owensboro, Ky., July 24.—Company C, of the Kentucky National Guard, received orders to leave at once for Hopkinsville. Lieut. Gans and twenty men will leave via Henderson Route this morning. Lieut. Gans will take with him the men who recently returned from Trigg county, where they were stationed for two months.

HAIR-RAISING STORY.

T. H. Stephens Tells Experience With Night Riders.

T. H. Stephens, a Lyon county

duch, has recently passed through some blood-curdling experiences, says a Paducah dispatch. Accused of being a traitor to the organization of night riders, he was condemned to death and a detail of nine men went to his house on the night of July 13 and took him seven miles from his home to murder him. Two of the men left the band on the way and the other seven took him to an old well, bound him with wires and a chain and fastened rocks to him and were about to throw him in the well when Stephens convinced them that he was innocent of the charge of being an informer. After a long talk the night riders released their victim and he returned to his home near Lamasco. Next night the night riders in a large force came back to get him and carry out the death sentence, but Stephens had sent his family away and was lying out in the woods and saw them go to his house and shoot it up. Some of them happened to see him moving behind some bushes and he had an exciting race for life. He finally escaped by his superior knowledge of the country and made his way on foot to Paducah, 45 miles. He traveled a day and night without anything to eat. His wife followed him to Paducah and his children are being taken care of by friends.

Stephens is of course afraid to return to his former home until peace is restored in the tobacco district.

PADUCAH REFUGEES

Go to Kuttawa to Consult About Night Riders' Cases.

Paducah, Ky., July 23.—Answering a telegram from County Attorney W. L. Krone, of Kuttawa, Sanford Hall and T. H. Stephens, witnesses in night rider prosecutions, who are staying in Paducah for safety, left for Kuttawa to hold a consultation with Mr. Krone. They returned but would not talk about the object of their visit. Hall intimated that they would not remain much longer in Paducah. It is thought that their hurried visit to Kuttawa had some connection with the raids Tuesday night by night riders when three Illinois Central railroad stations were burned.

FIGHT FOR NEGRO VOTE

Mr. Bryan Outlines a Part of His Campaign Policy.

BUSY DAY AT HOME.

Urges Colored Leaders to Start a General Movement For Him.

Lincoln, Neb., July 24.—The determination of the Democrats to capture the negro vote of the country was further emphasized today when William J. Bryan told a delegation of negroes from Lincoln that it was his desire that they should get in touch with their brethren everywhere, and particularly in Ohio, and agree upon a line of campaign in behalf of the Democratic ticket. The men who called were Adam Loving, for many years a leader of Republican negroes in this city; R. K. Battlo, W. D. Grant and Frank Williams, who have organized a Bryan and Kern negro club.

Not for some time has Mr. Bryan spent such a busy day. His callers numbered over 100 and with many of them the political situation was canvassed. He informed them that in his opinion the Democrats of the country never before presented such a solid front, but that they must continue to keep on the firing line until the very day of election.

TOBACCO CAN BE SOLD

If Purchaser Will Agree to Keep It in the Pool.

In order to relieve the tenant tobacco grower from his present embarrassed financial condition the Franklin County Board of Control has taken steps in the direction of permitting him always to sell this tobacco. There is a restriction regarding the sale however that must be taken into consideration both by the purchaser and the seller. The tobacco must remain in the pool, and the person purchasing it must agree to keep it in the pool. At the last meeting of the members of the Franklin County Board of Control it was decided to permit the grower to sell if they would agree to get a purchaser who would keep the tobacco in the pool.

A resolution directly to the opposite had been adopted by the board on a previous meeting but there was so much complaint at this ruling that it was decided to make the change. It will soon be the time of the year when the children of the tenant must go to school, and they must have books and clothing to wear to school, and this arrangement of the board will relieve their wants as they will sell their tobacco.—State Journal.

Accidents will happen, but the best regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurts.

We've Got a Telephone.

We've got a telephone at last; And wife is quite content. She says the news comes in so fast She hasn't spent a cent For literature of any kind,— She hears the neighbors tell So much of things that're going on. She listens for that bell, And when some one begins to talk, She takes receiver down, And then she knows how everything Is going on in town. I'd like to use the phone sometimes And get the price of grain, And call the Weather Bureau up, And learn when it will rain. But all the women on our line Have got so much to say, I wait and wait, while other men Are drawing in their hay. And when I say a word or two And wish that telephone Was anywhere but in my house, Or I'd a line alone.— From AUGUST FARM JOURNAL.

OUTING AT CAVE FOR BALDHEADS

Club Takes an Automobile Excursion to the Country.

GOOD TIME FOR ALL.

Some Happy After Dinner Speeches and Gems of Poetry.

A pleasant surprise was in store for the Baldheaded Club when it met in called session yesterday. Just why the meeting should have been called in the daytime was made clear when President Champlin announced that a trip to the country was the order of the day.

Automobiles were soon puffing in place, under the direction of Col. Buck Leavell and Lem McKee, and as soon as the vehicles could be loaded, the train of horseless carriages sped away over the pike to a romantic spot in a beautiful grove, "Far from the madding crowd's ignoble strife."

The site was an ideal one. Underneath an overhanging bluff was a wide and capacious cavern, fifty feet in width and almost as deep. On one side the cavern narrowed into a passage way that extended for perhaps a mile back under the hill. A stream of water crossed this cave, dropped to a lower level and emerged just outside the large entrance as a spring of delightfully cool water. Deep the spring in front of the cave stretched a pretty little valley, through which the spring branch wound its way and disappeared in the forest. All around were the primeval forest trees, under whose overhanging boughs the Red men pitched their teepees more than a hundred years ago.

Here in this natural bungalow the Club was to hold its meeting and initiate half a dozen new members and drive full care away and devote the day wholly to pleasure.

President Champlin was in his glory. A beaming smile irradiated his capacious features, a resplendent sunflower adorned the lapel of his coat and the glad hand was extended to every one.

Col. Buck Leavell was a committee of one to look after the barbecued meats that had been roasting for several hours over a fire on the hillside.

Col. Ed Peyton presided at a tin tub full of lemonade such as he alone can make.

Bill Howell had come in from Caledonia and was soon back in the dark recesses of the inner cave, rehearsing by the light of a tallow candle, one of his celebrated impromptu speeches to be delivered extemporaneously after dinner.

Col. Ward Caggett, who had not attended for a long time, was there with his polished dome of thought a close second to Col. Joe Twyman in the absence of hair.

Col. Chess Pyle was prancing around like a two-year-old colt in a field of April clover.

It would not be fair to tell that all was done while the appetites were being whetted, but as high noon approached the odor of roast meat smote the air and soon there was something doing.

After dinner there were many happy speeches and some bran new things were gotten off, including Col. Bill Howell's poem on the Democratic candidates, which was as follows to-wit and appears herewith:

Don't think I'm wicked
But I don't care a darn
For any old ticket
But Bryan and Kern.

Col. Howell received so much applause that Col. Ike Hart ventured the opinion that the bard was Kuppling his opinion that he was up to the mark, feeling to give $4.99 to any man who could compose and recite a poem half as good.

Col. Walter Southall said he could do it with both hands tied behind him and the cavern was soon

I mean no offense
But my boy Herman
Has got more sense
Than Taft and Sherman.

Col. Lem McKee said the trouble about Col. Southall's poem was that it seemed to deal in taffy for Herman and not for Taft.

Col. Ed Peyton then propelled the following gem full upon the auricular nerves of the enraptured auditors:

Look out for the coming landslide,
And mind which way you turn,
It's moving at a 2-40 gait,
Straight for Bryan and Kern.

President Champlin ruled Col. Peyton's poem out of order, because it was impossible to tell whether he meant that Bryan and Kern were going to be caught up on the landslide or run over by it.

Col. Peyton said the ambiguity of the effort was its chief merit. The poem was composed under a bi-partisan administration.

At this point several Colonels were on their feet claiming recognition, to recite poems, but President Champlin said the contest had developed into an unprecedented exhibition of cruelty to animals and after fining Col. Hart $10 for starting the trouble, he declared the meeting adjourned. Col. Hart survived the fine and is doing as well as could be expected.

BOWSER FEUD IS OVER

Samuel and Mother-in-law Have Sincere Reconciliation.

HOW IT ALL CAME ABOUT.

Trouble in the Past Had Been Due to Misunderstandings—They Beg Each Other's Pardon and Promise Never More to Offend.

[Copyright, 1908, by T. C. McClure.]

Mrs. Bowser had run into a neighbor's the other evening after dinner, and Mr. Bowser sat smoking and reading, when there came a ring at the front door. He waited until it was repeated and then went down the hall with his mind made up to throw the tramp off the steps. As the door swung open his mother-in-law walked in. It was the same woman, with the same satchel. He started back and began to glare at her, and to his amazement, she smiled and held out her hand and said:

"Howdy do, Sammy? I hope you are glad to see me."

"Yes," she replied as he took the hand and shook it limply.

"I hope Sarah is not ill?"

"No, she's just gone into Green's for a little while."

"Then I'll just go down and help myself to a bite to eat. Don't you put yourself out. Are you feeling well, my son?"

"Yes, pretty well. You—you didn't write that you were coming?"

"Nope. I just got ready and came right along. Fact is I wanted to see you and have a little talk with you. We'll have a chat after I have something to eat."

She went down to the dining room, and Mr. Bowser sat down to think. The relations between him and his mother-in-law had been strained for almost twenty years. She had arrived on a visit many, many times before.

"ENTER AGAIN, SAMMY, WILL I CALL YOU A BUM?"

But never to call him Sammy and ask after his health. On the contrary, as the reader knows, she had arrived to play the bulldozer and the tyrant and make him feel his helplessness. On numerous occasions he has tried to throw off the yoke, but never with success. What did her arrival portend? Why that smile? What was hidden behind that "Sammy?"

Mr. Bowser determined to be on the safe side, and he was about to make a sneak outdoors when a voice came up to him:

"Oh, Sammy, don't get impatient! I'll be with you in five minutes."

He felt himself turning pale and his heart beating faster. Had she come to lecture him on his latest scheme to start on ostrich farm? Had she heard that he wanted to sell the house and get and go into aquatics? Had any one told her that he stood ready to go on a search for the north pole? If not that, was she going to call him a scoundrel and a villain and break up his home by insisting that her daughter get a divorce?

Made Up Mind to Fight.

It was a bad ten minutes that Mr. Bowser spent with himself, and he had just made up his mind to fight to the last gasp when the mother-in-law came upstairs. She was still smiling, she extended her hand for another shake and then sat down beside him and said:

"Yes, Sammy, I'm real glad to see you again. I've been doing lots of thinking about you since New Year's. I wanted to come down then, but I couldn't quite arrange it. Did you say you were glad to see me?"

"If you pitch into me I shall answer back."

"Pitch into you, Sammy? Why should I do such a thing as that? Why should I pitch into my favorite son-in-law?"

"But the last time you were here you called me a heartless beast and said you wanted me to understand that you ran this house and me too. The time before that you drew the ax on me and made me stop tinkering with the furnace."

"I did? Why, I don't remember anything about it. If it was so, then I beg your pardon. I'm sure you are the last man on earth whose feelings I should want to hurt. Did Sarah say anything about the letter from me two weeks ago?"

"Yes, I believe she did say something, but I didn't pay much attention."

"Didn't she tell you that I said you were one of the best husbands on earth and that I hoped she appreciated you?"

"No."

"I must speak to her about it. Mary, she thought it wouldn't do to praise you too much. I never can be thankful enough that she found such a good husband. Sammy, I noticed a bottle of claret on the sideboard. You might step down and take a nip."

"But the last time you were here you called me an old hum because I took a nip."

"That was just an old woman's way, you know. Hum. Why, I should like to hear my one refer to you as a hum in my presence!"

Mr. Bowser felt weak and wobbly, and he went down and took a nip—two of 'em. When he returned the mother-in-law reached for his hand and said:

"Yes, Sammy, I got to thinking on New Year's day what a good man you were, and I found myself feeling sorry that I had ever said anything to hurt your feelings. I came this time to beg your pardon and promise to be a different mother-in-law hereafter. Can you overlook the past, Sammy?"

"Do you mean that you didn't come down here to bulldoze and blow around?" he asked.

"Why, Sammy, how could I think of such a thing?"

"Once, when I bought a pig, you said I didn't know as much as a boy ten years old."

"Then I must have been crazy. I'd take another nip of that claret if I were you."

Mr. Bowser went down and took another nip—two of 'em.

"I may have said mean things, Sammy, but I never meant them," said the mother-in-law as he returned. "I have made up my mind to begin this year right."

"I bought some chickens, and you said I hadn't the brains of a grasshopper."

"Is it possible?"

"I wanted to clean house once as you came here, and you picked up the butcher knife and ordered me out. You said you would as soon murder me as not."

"Upon my word, but I must have been crazy!"

"And once you told Sarah right before me that if you had to live with such a husband as I am you'd pour hot lead into his ears while he slept."

"Then I ought to have been sent to an asylum. Say, Sammy, there's a bottle of claret on the sideboard."

Mr. Bowser went down and saw that she was correct, and he took a nip—two of 'em.

Begged His Forgiveness.

"Sit right here, and we'll hold hands and talk," said the mother-in-law as he came back in a melting mood. "I want you to forgive me if I've ever hurt your feelings."

"I will."

"I want you to know that I think you are the best man on earth."

"Thanks."

"And I want you to think me the best woman."

"I do."

"Never again, Sammy, will I call you a bum. Never again will I draw an ax on you. Never again will I threaten you with the butcher knife or say that you haven't the brains of a grasshopper. I want love and peace and harmony between us. I want the whole world to know how proud of you I am. Sammy, let us sing:

"For he's a jolly good fellow—
For he's a jolly good fellow—"

Mr. Bowser went down for another nip—two of 'em—from the bottle, but found it empty. He therefore put on his hat and overcoat to renew the supply. He saw two mothers-in-law and went out of two doors. There were two gates, and he hadn't proceeded a hundred feet when he leaned up against two fences to think it over. Pretty soon what seemed like two policemen came along, and both of them said to him:

"Well, old cock, what are you doing here?"

"My name's Bowser."

"Muzzler-law has come down to see me."

"Yes?"

"And shay, she's 'er best old gal in all this world. She begs my pardon—I beg hers, too."

"Shay, officer, put me in my lizzie bed and tell everybody that I died of too much happiness!" M. QUAD.
